HAROLD WEISBERG comes into the local limelight again, re the releasing of all that F.B.I. data concerning Pres. John F. Kennedy's assassination. Bet they never read Harold's books. He says he hasn't the $8,000 it costs to obtain the 40,000 pages, but then he knows it all anyway. We asked him where his books are being sold and he replied, "Almost nowhere." They may be obtained directly from him, however. He feels that his three impending law suits and revelations have made it imperative for the F.B.I. to release the data. Harold is not in the best of health and has compromised a chain smoking habit for an occasional cigar or pipe. Too, he has all that good fresh air up in the Shookstown area.
